In the absence of the Hecata and the Oracles, the Camarilla has grown with new additions and the Primogen Council continues to get fleshed out. After Hours: Mojitoville/The Loft

7/19/25- The Hunters and Garou teamed up to figure out the mystery of a kid reported as being taken by drones and miraculously rescued, only to find that there was indeed- no drones involved but instead candy imbued with magic. Luckily the witnesses didn't understand what they were seeing and the group was able to jump in and start researching. Unfortunately when they got closer to the source, mishaps with magic and wishes sent the group into a system of errors. Just as they were cracking the code on what to do to protect themselves from this djinn granting corrupted wishes, wishes were made and deaths occurred, were undone, and now the once viable team working for Pappy are now humans with no recollections of who they were and the mission they were on.
